Tips for a Beautiful Summer Garden

Spruce Up Your Summer Garden

Here are some fun tips to keep your garden looking gorgeous all summer long:

- Beware the summer insect! As your plants grow larger in the summer sun, pests like aphids and white flies will begin to multiply and destroy your beautiful garden plants. Be proactive against these tiny beasts by spraying both upper and lower leaves with neem or pyola oil on a seven to ten day cycle.
- Water in the evening. The hot summer sun will evaporate any water you give your plant before it has a chance to reach your plants' roots. Watering in the evening ensures that your plant has a chance to become fully hydrated.
- Deadhead your plants. No, this is not a music group reference. This is the act of cutting off the dead flowers from your plants. It helps your plant regenerate and grow new flowers and foliage while keeping your garden from looking ragged.
